This page contains auction and secondary market reports by Potomac Economics, RGGI, Inc.'s independent market monitor.

Potomac Economics provides independent expert monitoring of the competitive performance and efficiency of the RGGI Allowance Market. This includes:

- Identifying attempts to exercise market power, collude, or otherwise manipulate prices in the auction and/or the secondary market;
- Making recommendations regarding proposed market rule changes to improve the efficiency of the market for RGGI Allowances;
- Assessing whether the auctions are administered in accordance with the noticed auction rules and procedures.

Potomac Economics monitors the RGGI Allowance market in order to protect and foster competition, as well as to increase the confidence of the states, participants, and public in the allowance market.
