Regional Stakeholder Meeting

February 10, 2006

A regional RGGI stakeholder meeting will be held at the State Room, 142 State Street in Albany, New York, beginning at 10:00 a.m., Friday, February 10, 2006. Please note this will be a regional stakeholder meeting and will replace the New York State stakeholder meeting originally scheduled and announced for this date and time and that this meeting was originally scheduled to be held at the New York State Department of Environmental Conservation (NYSDEC) headquarters in Albany.

The State Room is located in the former DeWitt Clinton Hotel at the corner of State and Eagle streets, catty-cornered (southeast) from the State Capitol. The State Room's Website (www.thestateroomalbany.com) provides driving directions. NYSDEC's Website (www.dec.state.ny.us) provides information on public transportation to and around Albany. Parking is available on a first come, first served basis at the Crowne Plaza Albany Hotel at State and Lodge streets, approximately one block from the State Room. The State Room will validate parking tickets from the Crowne Plaza parking garage. See www.cpalbany.com for directions to the Crowne Plaza. Parking is also available at several commercial and municipal lots in downtown Albany; a map is available at www.parkalbany.com

Taxi fare to State Street from Albany International Airport is approximately $22, and approximately $10 from Albany-Rensselaer railroad station.

Entrances to 142 State Street are closed on the State Street side. Enter the State Room on Eagle Street, through the third door from State Street.

The meeting will start promptly at 10:00, but as check-in and registration will take some time, please plan to arrive at approximately 9:30.

We are unable to offer morning refreshments for this meeting, but there are several coffee shops in the vicinity. A sandwich bar will be available for individual lunch sales at the State Room, and there are many restaurants in downtown Albany if you prefer to go out. A list of local restaurants will be made available.
