

Discussion Questions: Apportioning the Regional Cap Among States

- Should RGGI apportion the regional cap to States and then let States decide how to allocate to sources? Should there be any guidelines or constraints on how States allocate to sources?
- Should there be a uniform benchmark or formula for apportioning the overall cap between States?
- Of the different benchmarks for apportionment presented, which are the most "equitable"? Why?
- Are there other considerations that should govern apportioning the cap between States?