

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Erin Yarrobino
84-23 109 AVENUE
Ozone Park NY 11417

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Carol Walker
29 Jefferson St
Winthrop MA 021522619

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Chuck Donegan
106 Empire St
Yonkers NY 107043047

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Bruce Finke MD
45 Vernon St
Northampton MA 01060

---

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Kimberly Wiley MD
72 Chimney Hill Rd Address 2
Rochester NY 146121640

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Francisco J. Velez
824 Palmer Rd

Bronxville NY 107083318

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Christopher Potter MD
100C Allandale St
Boston MA 021303442

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Mercedes Armillas

659 Saint Marks Ave
Brooklyn NY 112163624

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Stephanie Clark MSW
135 Rice Corner Rd
Brookfield MA 015061806

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state and having family members with asthma, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Debra Metcalf
85 Tophet Rd
Carlisle MA 017411623

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Oliver Yourke
525A 6th Ave
Brooklyn NY 112154978

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Joel Trupin PhD
143 School St
Marshfield VT 056588047

---

Dear RGGI Board of Directors,

Since 2009, Regional Greenhouse Gas Initiative (RGGI) states have saved $5.7 billion as well as pain, suffering and days lost from work and school.

You are now determining the next phase of the carbon cap-and-invest program. Unfortunately, the proposed carbon cap doesn't go far enough in protecting health from harmful air pollution and the effects of climate change. Under the proposed cap, the most vulnerable -- children, elderly, low-income communities and communities of color -- will be placed at risk.

The RGGI must ensure 5 percent carbon pollution reductions annually from 2020 levels through 2030, and RGGI funds must be heavily invested in the vulnerable communities that feel the most harm from air pollution and climate change.

Given the dismantling of our climate and air protections at the federal level, we need strong state level action now. As a resident of a RGGI state, I call on you to lead the way.

Sincerely,

Dave Wiig
141 Benton Rd
Morris CT 06763